ALLEN UNIVERSITY MAY CHANGE SITE

School May Be Moved to Lands Recently Acquired North of Columbia.

(Written for The State.)

The annual commencement of Allen university was concluded last night with the annual election of the teachers. The commencement exercises have been in progress for several days. The graduating exercises of the college were held yesterday in Copple hall. Great crowds of negroes from different sections of the State attended.

The most prominent speaker at the commencement was John Mitchell, Jr., editor of the Richmond Planet and president of the Mechanics and Savings bank of Richmond. Mitchell delivered the address to the alumni association. He is a speaker of reputation and the only negro member of the National Bankers' association.

For two years the administration of the college has been in the hands of the Rev. W. W. Beckett, a native of Charleston. President Beckett's administration has been very fruitful and the general opinion in the State of the college is good. Dr. Beckett was a candidate for bishop in the A. M. E. church at the last general conference, which met in Kansas City. He held the office of secretary of missions and has traveled extensively throughout the United States in the interest of his position. He was unanimously reelected president of the college. The trustee board at its first session received from the reports of the presiding elders and other members of the board $10,300, which was raised in a special spring rally for the college.

Allen university has no endowment fund. It has a unique scheme of raising funds to maintain the college through the membership of the A. M. E. church in this State. From the report of the secretary of the board of trustees over $25,000 were the annual receipts for the scholastic year.

The trustees have purchased 54 acres of land near the city for the establishment of an annex to the college plant in which many phases of industrial education and agriculture in its broadest sense may be given the students. It is rumored that the board may sell the present property of the college in Waverley and move the entire plant of the school to the new site. Whether this will be finally agreed upon by the leaders is yet speculative.

The degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon the Rev. G. K. Spearman of Camden, N. J., yesterday by the faculty and trustees. Forty-two students were graduated with the L. I. degree, one with B. D., and one with A. B.

The faculty for the ensuing year is as follows: The Rev. W. W. Beckett, D. D., president; C. G. Garrett, vice president; Frazella Campbell, professor of German, Latin and Spanish; O. A. Combs, professor of Greek; Richard E. Brogdon, professor of mathematics; A. B. Johnson, M. D., professor of science; O. L. Lavalle, professor of English; L. E. Lambert, normal teacher; graded school department, A. V. T. McDaniel, Josephine Simmons, Abbie Johnson, C. E. Wilson; domestic art, E. L. Sighler; domestic science, E. Purvis.

The business of the college is managed by the president and the executive committee of trustees in the absence of the regular board. Bishop W. D. Chappelle is vice president of the executive committee, Green Jackson of Columbia is secretary and the Rev. D. H. Johnson of Abbeville is treasurer. Bishop L. J. Copple is president of the board and also presiding bishop of North and South Carolina.

BENEDICT LABORATORIES.

The chemical laboratory has 96 individual lockers. Each student has his key and is held responsible for the contents of the locker. There is good space for four persons, and plans made for ten. Eighteen persons work in the laboratory at one time, each having his own Bunsen burner on his desk and the water with in his reach just over the lead trough that carries the waste liquids. All dilute and common liquid are on the individual shelf, while those of a more important nature are upon a common shelf in an alphabetical order thus saving the student much time in performing his experiments. When he strikes an experiment that calls for apparatus not in his locker, he fills out a borrowed list and gets the same from the instructor for the said experiment, returning it in good condition when through with it. So, the plan is for the student to do experiments that are given and the material is always on hand if it can be had.

The biological laboratory is in good working condition and work is now going on in it. There are ten compound microscopes and six dissecting microscopes for the use of the college student. There are slides provided for the students when fresh material cannot be had. Regular laboratory tables are now being placed, and plans made for charts and maps for all classes in botany and zoology.

The Physical laboratory is nearing completion. Already the gas burners for individual work have been placed and the tables are being constructed. The laboratory is equipped with apparatus to perform any of the experiments called for by the text. The students have done great work in this department this year, especially with the pulleys heat, light, electricity, sound, and water. Greater things are planned for next year.

One trouble is to hold the student down until he is in line for the laboratory work, so anxious is he for the course. If the departments are supplemented each year as they have been for the past three years, Benedict will soon have what she says she wants, that, that will fit the boy or girl with just the kind of science he wants and needs and will feel proud that she can introduce the several students to nature as she without such equipment would be unable to do so.
